

radar

[out loud]

“IT WILL BE A VERY STORMY NIGHT. I AM ALWAYS INTERESTED IN MAKING SURE PEOPLE READ, SO TAKE OUT THE FLASHLIGHT AND READ TO YOUR KID.”

— Gov. Jeb Bush, encouraging people to spend time with their families during Tropical Storm Ernesto.

EDUARDO SCHNEIDER

One-Stop Doggy Shop

Happy Paws will take care of all your pet needs

Feeling guilty about leaving your precious pup home alone all day? Does Rover need a bath? Or a ride to the vet? When you find yourself in need of personalized doggy daycare, give Carmen Suero a call. An animal lover her entire life, Suero's attraction to our four-legged friends was so strong that she left her well-regarded position in the medical field after 25 years. Her dog-walking sessions stress fitness, socialization and obedience, and are always one-on-one. She'll also board your pet for you and not in one of those sterile, lonely facilities — she'll watch over Rover at her own house. Suero is licensed and insured, so there's no need to worry while your pet is with her. She can be reached at unacarmen@aol.com.

[South Florida by numbers]

40 mph, the top sustained winds from Tropical Storm Ernesto.

20,000

number of new housing units built in Miami-Dade County in a one-year period.

1.8 MILLION

the number of people that departed from the Port of Miami for cruises last year, making it the world's busiest cruise-ship hub.

88,000

number of passengers that come and go from Miami International Airport every day.

430 million

number of dollars a new Marlins stadium is projected to cost.

EDUARDO SCHNEIDER

The Tides Hotel Turns 70—and Gets a Facelift

When a weekend getaway won't cut it, buy your own piece of beach bliss

To celebrate its 70th anniversary, The Tides South Beach Hotel is getting a facelift, thanks to design darling Kelly Wearstler and her celebrated Los Angeles design firm, kwid. The Kor Hotel Group, a successful boutique hotelier, purchased the property earlier this year and ultimately decided to transform it into a condo-hotel. The company, which caters to a monied crowd with exquisite taste, knew that its new concept would be a perfect fit for the South Beach scene. The initial release will offer a variety of hotel residences at pre-construction prices, but only 45 hotel residences will be available (all with views of the ocean), so the sooner you act, the better.